Teenager charged in Pearlington murder

By ELLIS CUEVAS

A 14-year-old neighbor of Mrs. Eldora Summers of Pearlington was arrested Wednesday and charged with murder in connection with her August 19 stabbing death.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson named the suspect as Freddie Anthony Rodriguez who lived directly across the street from Mrs. Summers' residence in a mobile home.

Rodriguez is a seventh grader at Charles B. Murphy Elementary School in Pearlington.

Peterson, Hancock Criminal Investigator Delbert Seay, Rodriguez and his grandfather, acting in proxy for his father, traveled to Jackson Wednesday for the suspect to undergo a polygraph test.

Hancock Justice Court Judge Joseph Dobson said late Wednesday he would hold a hearing this morning for Rodriguez.

"The youth became a suspect when he was identified by at least four witnesses the day after the crime who reportedly saw him running in the ditches, in and out of the woods on Seventh Street and along US-90 into Louisiana, after the murder occurred," Peterson stated.

The sheriff continued, "Rodriguez was spotted by his uncle, mother, and grandmother, who were coming from work in New Orleans at the Middle Pearl River bridge on the afternoon of the crime."

"They stopped the car and tried to talk to him and he fled into the woods. His uncle gave chase while his mother and grandmother went to seek additional help," Peterson continued.

Peterson said, "His uncle caught up with him in a swamp. Rodriguez was on his hands and knees crying.

When asked what was wrong, he said Mrs. Summers had been stabbed. His uncle probably was not aware of the crime at that time."

Peterson reported his office believed it had a prime suspect 24 hours after the brutal crime, but because of his age, whenever they spoke to him they had to have a member of his family present.

"One of the reasons we did not make an arrest earlier was because we wanted to really be sure, and I have been talking to him and his family for eight days," Peterson allowed.

When asked if his family thought he was a suspect, Peterson said, "I feel his family was aware that he was a suspect the day after the crime."

Peterson and Assistant District Attorney J.P. Compretta, who was preparing the affidavits and warrants, and has been assisting the sheriff's department in the investigation of Mrs. Summers' death, both said his name could be released to the press in spite of his age since he is charged with murder.

Peterson did say, "While in my custody, he will be treated as a juvenile because of his age."

Peterson reported the knife found near the victim's body is the murder weapon which had been taken from a counter near to where the victim's blood-stained body was found.

Peterson said Wednesday after the polygraph, "We feel the suspect got trapped in Mrs. Summers' home trespassing and was confronted by her, she threatened to call police and the crime was committed."

Mrs. Summers and her late husband Thomas Forrest Summers, who was gunned down on August 31, 1973 in a robbery attempt, operated Summers Grocery in Pearlington for many years.

Mrs. Summers, a store clerk and a female customer witnessed her husband's murder.

Two persons sentenced in connection with the murder of Mrs. Summers' husband are now out of prison were never seriously considered as

Bay residents facing utility rate hikes

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Bay St. Louis utility customers may be facing rates hikes up to $10 per month beginning in October.

City hall officials revealed Tuesday garbage collection fees and sewage rates are inadequate to finance the services and rate increases are necessary to offset rising costs and decreases in city revenues.

"Garbage collection fees cover only 71 percent of direct collection and disposal cost and none of our overhead costs," Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr. said in a budget workshop.

He recommended the garbage collection fee be raised from $3.50 per month to $4.90 which would cover the direct costs of the service.

The garbage collection fees have not been increased since 1981.

Frankiewicz told the council the increase could be moderated if county officials would waive the annual $18,000 landfill charge.

He recommended the council request a waiver on this fee which results in city residents paying double for use of the landfill.

A sewer rate increase in fiscal year 1987 will be necessary, Frankiewicz said.

"The city will have to pay $278,000 to the Waveland Regional Wastewater District in the next year," he added.

Last year the utility system spent more than was taken in to finance major expenditures, primarily Waveland Regional costs, Frankiewicz said.

"Using up the prior years' retained earnings and reserves held rates down last year but the system is living on its savings account and it cannot continue," he stated.

Also necessitating the sewer rate increase is the $250,000 that must be paid in the coming fiscal year on debt service for the Farmers Home Administration project which provided sewer services in many areas of the annexed area of the city.

While sewer and garbage rates are expected to increase, water rates can probably stay stable and gas rates may be cut slightly if the trend in controlling unaccounted for gas continues, Frankiewicz said.

Anticipated revenues for the next fiscal year are down by $115,500.

According to Frankiewicz, this is due to the end of the revenue sharing project (which brought in more than $250,000 in the past two years), a decrease in the tax base and prior use of reserves.

In spite of decreased revenues, Frankiewicz recommended the council set the millage rate to yield the same total ad valorem taxes as last year to avoid increasing the city resident's tax burden.

Council delays hospital zoning until September

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

A proposal zoning the new hospital site and four lots facing Drinkwater Road as hospital-clinic property was defeated Tuesday vote in a special meeting of the Bay St. Louis City Council.

Councilman James Thriffley made the motion for the special hospital zoning of the four lots facing on the new four-lane area of Drinkwater at a joint meeting last week of the council and the Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commission.

At Tuesday's meeting he amended the motion to include the site for the new Hancock Medical Center.

Councilman Wilmer Seymour seconded the motion.

In a split vote, the motion was defeated with Councilmen John Wilkerson, Lisa Coward and Charles Johnson voting nay.

Wilkerson said he would like to hold the issue until the council had more time to physically investigate the area, talk to residents and get some definite answers for area plans.

Following the vote Hancock General Hospital Administrator Philip Wolfe told the board delaying their decision was serving a great injury not only to the medical community but the community in general.

"This issue has been before you for a sufficient amount of time to make an intelligent decision," he added.

Wolfe also said the board's action was "stifling the growth of the medical community in the area."

In discussion before the vote, Mayor Victor Frankiewicz recommended hospital-clinic zoning for all lots fronting on Drinkwater around the hospital site.

"It is a fact that there will be a new hospital in the area with a significant impact on the community and eventually there will be a demand for new doctor's space," he said.

Because of this property facing Drinkwater will not be desirable residential property in the long range, Frankiewicz said.

County decision expected on barn site purchase

By DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors is expected to decide today whether to purchase land for the construction of a central county barn.

According to Beat Five Supervisor James Travirca, the board members plan a discussion on the purchase of five to 10 acres of land adjacent to the site of the Beat Four Community Center on Highway 43 near the junction of Highway 603.

Part of the land will be used for the central barn, Travirca said.

The construction of a central barn is part of the county's implementation of the unit system, which was established by a board resolution following a June 3 referendum.

The purchase of additional property has been requested by Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson, who wants to establish a county work farm similar to the one operated by the Harrison County Sheriff's Department.

"We hope to be able to advertise for the purchase of the land Thursday," Travirca said Tuesday afternoon.

Travirca, however, will be absent from today's meeting because he will be in Jackson attending a Mississippi Association of Supervisors Executive Committee meeting.

The supervisors have obtained plans for a barn recently constructed for Harrison County's Beat Five and will use them for the central barn.

The Harrison County plans have been redrawn by Travirca, who was a contractor before he was elected to office.

Travirca said the central barn will cost about $80,000.

"That's what they want. It has to have room for all the county equipment, especially equipment that needs repairs or maintenance," the supervisor said.

The building will be brick veneer with a metal roof and will include room for all types of county equipment as well as offices for the board of supervisors, County Road Maintenance Superintendent William Johnson and Johnson's secretary.

Johnson officially took office Aug. 1. He presently does not have an office. The secretary remains to be hired.

Also to be based at the barn will be a mechanic who has not been hired yet.

According to Travirca, the mechanic will have to be capable of working on diesel equipment.

The board meeting begins at 9 a.m. in the boardroom on the second floor of the Hancock County Courthouse.

Tenth Labor Day telethon drive slated

By EDGAR H. PEREZ

Hancock and West Harrison county volunteers will conduct their 10th annual drive for Muscular Dystrophy this weekend in conjunction with the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon.

James A. Lagasse Jr. of Waveland, coordinator for the area effort, said phones will be manned at the Waveland City Hall continuously from 6 p.m. Sunday through 6 p.m. Monday "or longer if necessary."

"We will be receiving pledges from people living in the 467, 255, 452 and 533 telephone exchange areas," Lagasse noted.

The Jerry Lewis national telethon to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association will be aired on Ch. 26 from New Orleans and carried on Ch. 9 of the Essex Cable TV System which serves Hancock County. Pledges may be made by calling 467-4134 or 467-9248, Lagasse said. The event is sponsored by Waveland Civic Association.

Waveland youth injured in one-vehicle accident

By DENA BISNETTE

A 17-year-old Waveland youth was treated at Hancock General Hospital for injuries he sustained in an early Sunday morning one-car crash on Waveland Avenue.

The injured driver is identified as Michael LeGros whose Dodge car left the road and turned over in a ditch, according to investigating officer Michael Prendergast of the Waveland Police Department.

LeGros was taken to Hancock General Hospital after the accident, which occurred about 2:30 a.m. Sunday morning.

The youth suffered scalp lacerations and chest trauma and was admitted to the hospital for observation. He was released Tuesday, Hospital Community Relations Director Mary Perkins said.

According to Prendergast, who investigated the accident, LeGros was apparently driving too fast for the curve that begins in Waveland Avenue at Carroll Street.

The driver apparently lost control of the vehicle at Carroll, where it ran off the road and travelled about 145 feet in a ditch before turning over at Edna Street, Prendergast said.

As it travelled between Carroll and Edna streets, the car destroyed a fence.

The police officer added that the car was headed south on Waveland Avenue but came to rest pointing north.

Legros was trapped in the vehicle and the Waveland Fire Department had to use Jaws of Life to free him, Prendergast said. Removing the victim from the car took about two minutes.

"He's a very lucky kid," said Shirley Cox, a Waveland Avenue resident who witnessed the accident.

"When he came around the curve, we heard him hit the fence in front of my house. When he went in the gutter, it looked like maybe the car hit a culvert and it flipped upside down on its roof," she said.

"The whole thing was like an accordion—smashed. The whole top was mashed down into the body."

"It looked like the driver was thrown in the back seat."

Prendergast confirmed that Legros was found behind the driver's seat in the vehicle.

Cox said she was impressed with the response to the accident. "There were the people from Mobile Medic, about eight policemen and the firemen. They were very quiet and they all worked together. They did a very good job."

Five Bay residences burglarized

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Bay St. Louis Police are seeking information in a two-day burglary spree of several residences in the Bay area.

Detective David Murtagh said Wednesday police officers have been questioning several people in connection with the five burglaries.

Four Bay St. Louis houses were burglarized Aug. 20. They include those of Louis Allen, 100 Felicity St.; Kenneth Roberts, Ideal Trailer Park; Leverta Dedeaux, 130 Blaize Ave.; and Gilbert R. Moore, 300 North Beach.

Queen Maurice's residence at 639 Union St. was robbed Aug. 19.

CANYON MUSIC

When the Paul Winter Consort wanted to create music inspired by the Grand Canyon, they didn't just play music "about" the canyon—they played music "of" the canyon.

"Canyon Consort," a one-hour special featuring the Paul Winter Consort's 277-mile journey down the Colorado river to create their special music, will be broadcast at 9 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 3, on both Mississippi ETV and PRM. Persons at home should tune their TVs to ETV and turn the sound down, and then tune their radios to PRM and turn the sound up. PRM can be found statewide on the FM dial between 88 and 92 MHz.

The Paul Winter Consort made three Colorado River expeditions through Grand Canyon National Park over a four-year period. The group, noted for its unique style of classically inspired acoustic jazz, was accompanied by the "Canyon Consort" film crew on its final river journey.

The film opens in the world's largest Gothic church, the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. There, the musicians perform a musical prayer in an attempt to summon the spirits from the natural cathedral in the Southwest to the human cathedral in New York.

Cities completing steel jaw trap ordinances

BY DENA BISNETTE

The city of Bay St. Louis is completing its efforts to enact a steel jaw trap ban with legal advertisements of a resolution adopted in April.

The resolution passed unanimously against the use of the traps, which are designed to clamp onto an animal's leg or other body parts and may or not be equipped with teeth.

The resolution states that use of steel jaw traps within the city "poses an unreasonable danger to both children and pets" and is "unreasonably cruel to wildlife, producing a high incidence of maiming and serious injury to such wildlife."

"...The general welfare of the community and the public necessity and safety require that the sale, use and setting of steel jaw traps be prohibited within the city limits of the City of Bay St. Louis," the ordinance states in part.

Any trap found set, used or sold inside the city limits will be impounded, rendered safe and removed. Violators will be fined $500 for each trap.

The Waveland Board of Aldermen has also adopted a resolution proposing an ordinance banning the use of steel jaw traps, but the ordinance has not yet been advertised, Board Attorney Lucien Gex said.

Waveland's proposed ordinance differs from the one adopted in Bay St. Louis in that the Waveland proposal does not prohibit sale of traps.

Waveland's fines are also different. The fine for the first violation is $50 per trap and increases to $100 per trap for subsequent violations.

The Waveland proposal was adopted at the request of C.J. Dumestre Jr. of the Hancock County Animal Commission.

Gex said the Waveland ordinance will probably be ready for advertisement next week.

Dianne Hunt, a member of Mississippians Against Steel Jaw Traps on the Gulf Coast, said her organization has encouraged Coast cities to adopt such ordinances.

In addition, she said federal legislation is pending that may make steel jaw traps illegal throughout the country.

"The cities are more concerned with protecting children and pets," she said.

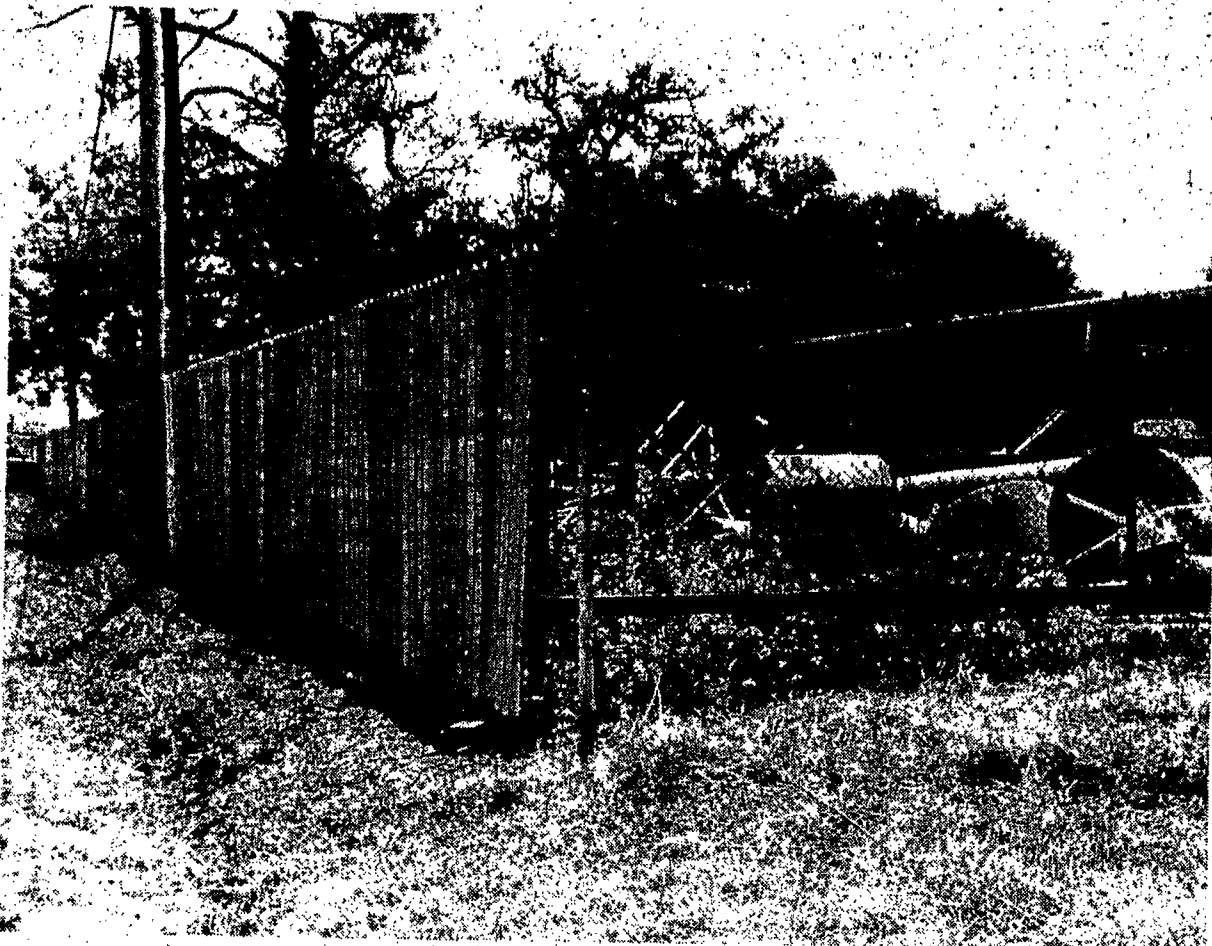

"On the federal level, the House bill would ban interstate and foreign commerce in steel jaw traps and any furs caught in those traps. The senate bill would ban the traps only."

"The ban that extends to the furs themselves would be much more protective."

Hunt said her organization hopes the two bills will be set for committee hearings late this month, with the hearings themselves taking place in late September.

She said Mississippians Against Steel Jaw Traps is encouraging Gulf Coast residents to write to their congressmen as well as the two committee chairmen handling the steel jaw trap bills, Representative Henry Waxman and Senator John Chafee.

"It is not too late," Hunt said.

suspects in her death, Peterson said. "From the beginning we thought it was someone close to the area, someone known by her," Peterson continued.

"We found later that the suspect in this case had played football in her yard and also played with the victim's grandchildren before the alleged killing," Peterson added.

The sheriff commented, "This has been a very hard and intensive investigation, as you know. Mrs. Summers was a longtime friend, as I had played football with her son and we graduated from high school the same year. The investigators and department personnel have worked very hard the last eight days."

Peterson reported his department received 100 percent cooperation from the residents of Pearlinton during the investigation.

Hancock Deputy Sheriff Ronnie Cuevas, a resident of Pearlinton, said the Rodriguez family had lived in the area for about two years, and the teenager's grandparents about eight years.

They had reportedly moved to Pearlinton from the New Orleans area.

Mrs. Summers' death shocked Pearlinton residents as she was described as a community leader who was always helping the residents of the area, both young and old.

Hancock County Medical Examiner Investigator Harold Stiglet said an autopsy report shows Mrs. Summers' death was due to exsanguination caused by multiple stab wounds to the face, neck and upper back.

Among those investigating the murder are Peterson, Hancock Criminal Investigators Alvin Ladner, Delbert Seay and Glen Strong, Hancock County Sheriff's Deputies Joe Pica, Tommy Powell, Willie Lee and Ronnie Cuevas, with assistance from Assistant District Attorney J.P. Compretta.

Also at the scene of the crime were Stiglet and Jim Odum, Hancock deputy medical examiner.

FARMWEEK

"Farmweek" will repeat some of the summer's best features on a program to air at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Sept. 1, on Mississippi ETV.

Two blueberry farms will be shown. A successful "pick-your-own" operation owned by the Reese family in Oktibbeha County developed from a more traditional farm operation.

The other blueberry farm, owned and operated by Ed and Edna Joy Priscock, has developed its own processing system and products. This farm, near Louisville, sells blueberry syrup and a special blueberry compote.

Also featured will be a group of Wayne County watermelon growers who recently formed their own marketing association. "Farmweek" reporters will visit the state's largest muscadine vineyard, now being planted in Clarke County.

The celebration of the Labor Day weekend will mean travel for many residents and visitors.

This will mean our highways and roadways will all have increased traffic.

It is hoped everyone will drive with extreme caution and have a safe holiday.

Please do not drink and drive.

The telethon for the annual Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy will again be conducted by the Waveland Civic Association on Sunday and Monday.

This will be the 10th year for the Waveland Civic Association to participate in the telethon with Jimmy Lagasse Jr. chairing the local program.

The local telethon headquarters will be at Waveland City Hall with hours from 6 p.m. Sunday through 6 p.m. Monday. Pledges may be made by calling 467-4134 or 467-9248 during those hours.

Lagasse, and Les Galivan, assistant chairman, can always use some extra help in answering the telephones.

There are several persons who regularly help with the telephones, and other helpers would be appreciated.

The proceeds from this telethon are used to help so many youngsters with muscular dystrophy.

We hope everyone will be able to help the telethon in some way.

Volunteers are needed for Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA).

VISTA offers tutoring to students kindergarten through sixth grade Monday through Friday from 2:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the Community Action Center, (Old Webb School), Third Street, Bay St. Louis.

The program is to help students having problems in any subject.

During the summer months some 65 students participated in the program and last school year there were 50.

Volunteers are needed for tutoring, and to do other things as helping prepare a snack for the students.

Further information on VISTA can be obtained by calling 467-3198.

Dear Sir,
Hip, Hip, Hooray!
Bay St. Louis makes the headlines!
Anything Gulfport can do we can do bigger and better.
Gulfport symbolically puts their mayor in a little old country jail cell.
Nothing symbolic about Bay St. Louis, heck, no!
We attack the very bastions of government—the City Hall itself, no less.

And what does this indicate?
That we have a mean, destructive, stupid element of a few disgruntled people.

"By their works ye shall know them."

Perhaps one of these days the mayor will learn to be a politician—"don't make nobody mad."

For the good of the city, I hope he never does.

Hancock Vista seeking volunteer tutors

August 27, 1986
To The Editor

Dear Sir,
We are in need of volunteers!
What for?
Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA)

Vista's mission is to strengthen and supplement efforts to eliminate poverty and poverty-related human, social and environmental problems.

While Vista is a national program which provides full-time volunteers to organizations which have goals in accord with the Vista mission, the volunteer's role in the poverty problem-solving process is focused toward mobilizing community resources and organizations to enable the community to solve its own problems.

The number of Vista projects and volunteers has more than doubled in recent months in Mississippi. Vista volunteers have begun to make an impact on communities in the state.

Please come forward, parents and people of the community. One hour, two or three hours are needed to help this program improve our community.

Vista in Hancock County is currently involved in conducting a tutorial program for youngsters grades kindergarten through six.

We welcome volunteers from the ranks of the senior citizens, more advanced students from the junior and senior high schools, or any other interested persons.

In addition to tutors, help with other services for the children, such as serving snacks during recess, is also needed.

Classes are conducted from 2:30 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday at the Community Action Agency Office, Webb Center, Third Street, Bay St. Louis. Volunteers may serve at their convenience during those hours.

Interested persons may call 467-3198 to volunteer or for more information.

Sincerely,
Geraldine Lang

THEFT OF COUNTY PROPERTY—Hancock County Board of Supervisors President A.A. (Dolph) Kellar holds the small pieces of blast stones removed from edge of a new bridge over Bayou Bacon on the Dossett Road in the Catahoula Community. The large stones are used to curb erosion Kellar said. Thieves use sledge hammers apparently to break the large stones into smaller ones for use in rock gardens and only leave the scraps. The removal of the large stones causes bridge washouts and can be hazardous to motorists, according to Kellar. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

News From The Governor's Office

Gov. Bill Allain

JACKSON—Governor Bill Allain is only one of four governors included in an invitation-only seminar for corporate and governmental chief executives sponsored by IBM Corporation on August 11-14 in Poughkeepsie, New York. Due to scheduling conflicts, Governor Allain will be the only Governor participating in this year's seminar.

In addition, Governor Allain will visit New York City on August 14-15 for meetings with business editors and reporters of New York-based media and with New York-area industrialists.

"This trip is part of a concentrated effort to take a message to business and industry decision-makers that Mississippi is moving forward in economic development. We will be discussing the strong points for locating or expanding industry in Mississippi and outlining recent gains our state has made in education, economic development, health care and governmental reorganization," Governor Allain said. "This trip will be the first of several similar activities aimed at national media and business markets."

Governor Allain was invited by IBM corporate executives to participate in the Chief Executive Officer's (CEO) Class, hosted by the IBM Customer Executive Program and senior IBM executives. During the seminar, he will attend classes with top management officials from throughout the United States, including chairmen of the board, organization presidents, generals, university presidents, admirals, government officials and other CEOs. Seminar participants hold executive positions in the fields of manufacturing, distribution, retailing, transportation, finance, education and other industries.

"We will be studying new technologies in the classroom, which will help us involved in economic development in Mississippi to identify fields for potential jobs in our State. Outside the classroom, we will learn one-on-one about one another's businesses. Since my business is the State of Mississippi, this seminar will offer a good opportunity to describe Mississippi and our potential. We will probably be inviting some of them to Mississippi, to view our assets first-hand," Governor Allain said.

"The message we will carry to the New York City media, for distribution throughout the country, will be what we are doing in Mississippi to attract new jobs. We will describe how we gained 59,000 new jobs since taking office in 1984. We will tell them that we are ranked 10th in business climate by a top management consultant. We will tell how we are the eighth highest state in new jobs created during 1985, according to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, and how the U.S. Commerce Department placed Mississippi in the 'fifth' highest category for income gains during the first three months of 1986. We have a powerful message about an exciting Mississippi and we intend to deliver it," Governor Allain said.

The Governor said he will also be discussing the efforts at revision of the Mississippi Constitution of 1890 to create a business climate more conducive to economic development. "These business writers have expressed an interest in the fact that we are, through Constitutional revision, trying to correct the core of our problem and to update obsolete areas of the Constitution that have held us back. This type of forward-thinking is not one the New York press corps often associates with Mississippi. We want to show them the Mississippi of the 1980s, and we think they'll be pleasantly surprised," Allain said.

The Poughkeepsie seminar is attended annually by 40 people and is in its 13th year.

Highway Patrol to use aircraft

JACKSON—Speeders, drunken and reckless drivers beware! The Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol will use aircraft to supplement ground enforcement during the upcoming Labor Day holiday period in an effort to prevent a repeat of the deadly 1985 observance.

Patrol officials said air surveillance pilots will notify ground enforcement units when speeding motorists, and automobiles being driven in an erratic or reckless manner, are located from the air. Additionally, they will be able to identify stranded motorists.

Also augmenting the regular duty officers during the three-day holiday observance will be troopers working federally funded DUI and 55 mile per hour national maximum speed law enforcement details.

"Last year's Labor Day observance was the deadliest holiday period of 1985 when 11 people lost their lives in automobile crashes," James L. Roberts Jr., commissioner of public safety, said.

Roberts reports that speed was the leading cause of highway deaths during the 1985 Labor Day holiday period and vehicles traveling on the wrong side of the road was the second leading cause.

Col. D. D. Cvitanovich, patrol chief, says the Highway Patrol is requesting that highway users obey the 55 mile per hour speed limit.

"The citizens of this state have always rallied behind the Highway Patrol in our efforts to provide strong law enforcement and save lives. We anticipate that same kind of cooperation with this important problem," the chief said.

The 76-hour Labor Day holiday begins at 6 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 29, and ends at midnight, Monday, Sept. 1, 1986.

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

JACKSON—Over in South Carolina, a rather remarkable thing happened in higher education recently.

Two traditionally bitter rivals, the University of South Carolina and Clemson University, decided to leave their rivalry to the athletic field, but to play on the same team in the educational and research field.

The Palmetto State peace pact was consummated when the president of the University of South Carolina spoke at commencement exercises at Clemson University and outlined a blueprint of a partnership in seeking state support for their academic objectives.

The key purpose, said USC President James Holderman, was to allow the two South Carolina institutions to cooperatively fulfill their educational goals, while at the same time boosting economic development of the state.

Significantly, he declared, "Here in South Carolina, there are those who continue to worship only the icons of the Sunbelt, thanking God and Mississippi that things aren't worse."

Therein lies a message and a challenge for Mississippi, where since time immemorial, an absurd internecine warfare has gone on between our two oldest universities, Ole Miss and Mississippi State.

But more on what Dr. Holderman proposed as the joint goals the two South Carolina institutions could pursue:

1. To seek from the Legislature a $75 million pool of state funds to match dollar-for-dollar private and industrial grants generated by the two institutions.

2. State Funds to create endowed professorships which would attract and hold distinguished educators.

3. Creation of a state scholarship fund by the Legislature to provide financial help for meritorious students whose educations are jeopardized by increases in tuition and cuts in federal assistance.

That three-pronged prescription for attacking the top needs in higher education in South Carolina precisely fit the critical needs of financially-stricken institutions in Mississippi.

The budget cuts dealt by the 1986 Mississippi Legislature to the universities are now being seen in a clearer light by many legislators and the prognosis of some is that higher education has been set back at least a decade.

Grave concern about what is happening to higher education here has at last prompted the state's business community to rally behind the educators in their battle for adequate financial support from the Legislature and the governor.

Last week's announcement of the formation of a statewide Council for Support of Public Higher Education in Mississippi, although arriving after the patient is already in critical condition, finally involves the state's influential business leadership in the struggle for higher education funding, something this writer had advocated early in the year.

If the business leaders think, however, they can accomplish something merely by putting on an advertising and public relations campaign, rather than getting down in the pits and twisting arms, they're sadly mistaken. It takes personal contact, not slick TV to make an impression on the average legislator.

But what of Mississippi's two bitter rivals—Ole Miss and Mississippi State? Is there any hope of achieving a partnership on academic goals as has happened in South Carolina?

It may be surprising to many, it certainly was to this writer, how closely drawn together President Donald Zacharias of MSU and Chancellor Gerald Turner of Ole Miss have already become.

Behind the scenes, Turner and Zacharias have apparently knocked down whatever barriers that have existed historically between the heads of the two institutions and have developed a mutual respect and warm friendship for each other.

The fiscal crisis in the Legislature perhaps was the catalyst for the two institution heads to find common cause and adopt mutual goals in dealing with the Legislature during the last session. In fact, not just Turner and Zacharias but also President Aubrey Lucas of the University of Southern Mississippi formed a solid front on pushing the same budget goals.

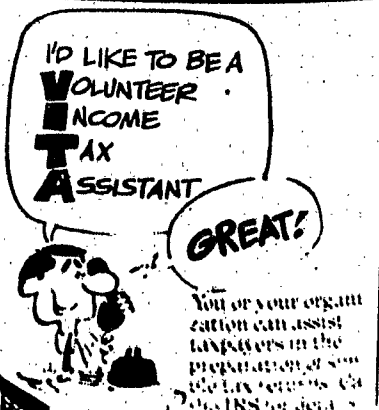

That's a far cry from the days not long ago when Ole Miss and State played the game of quid pro quo. Whenever one was given some new program, then the other had to get one in kind. This is how MSU got a veterinary medicine school when Ole Miss got a dental school.

Turner and Zacharias have been thrown together in working with a private sector organization based in Tupelo that is exploring ways the two universities can become more directly involved in economic development.

As in South Carolina, the heads of Ole Miss and Mississippi State see their institutions providing a more vital role in the state's economic future since they have the burden of producing professionals who can compete in the world of rapid technological advancement.

Next month, the two university heads are planning to meet with the state's Congressional delegation in Washington to jointly seek ways to use their institutions in the state and national interest.

Who knows...Colonel Rebel and the MSU bulldog may find out their real competition is not each other

Role of sewerage undetermined in fish kill

BY DENA BISNETTE

Treated effluent from the Bay St. Louis sewage lagoon may or may not have contributed to a fish kill in Watts Bayou early this week.

Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District Administrator Ethel Schott said she was not notified of the kill until Tuesday, when a television reporter contacted her about complaints from residents of the Watts Bayou area.

Watts Bayou is the discharge point for the effluent from the Bay lagoon, but Schott said she does not believe the treated effluent caused the fish kill.

Dr. Fred Deegen, chief of fisheries for Bureau of Marine Resources in Long Beach, said the bureau had not been asked to investigate the kill.

He also said he had obtained his first information from the television report, which aired Tuesday night, and commented that the kill "could have resulted from any number of possible causes."

He said the bureau usually does not investigate fish kills. Instead, such matters are turned over to State Bureau of Pollution Control when it is suspected that the kills did not result from natural causes.

Deegen said fish kills resulting from a low dissolved oxygen content in water are common in August and September, particularly in hot weather.

"Some treated effluent can effect the biological oxygen demand and any time one increases the amount of suspended solids in the water, particularly organic matter," Deegen said.

However, Deegen also stated that it is "entirely possible that we could have had that phenomenon occur without the sewage effluent being discharged into that bayou."

He said Watts Bayou has particularly favorable conditions for that type of fish kill because there is little flushing action and because the bayou is in a protected area that is reached by a little wind.

Schott said she agrees with Deegen's theory.

"It is after the fact now, so we have no way of knowing what killed those fish," she said.

"We do know that fish can thrive in very polluted water. It is not what people call pollution that usually kills fish. It is lack of oxygen."

She said she has worked with the district since 1982 and has never received a report of a fish kill in the bayou, despite the allegation voiced by some of the people interviewed in the television report.

"They said it happens four or five times a year, but it has not been reported to us," Schott said.

"I think what people are trying to state is that we're putting something toxic in the water that's killing the fish. That's not true at all."

She explained that the sewerage deposited in the Bay lagoon by the city's collection system is treated by natural means, then chlorinated and run through a three-mile ditch before it is discharged into the bayou.

"I can guarantee you that we are not putting raw sewage into Watts Bayou," she said.

Schott also explained that there are numerous septic tanks along the ditch that may at times discharge some raw sewage into the bayou.

"The amount and when the discharges occur can not be identified, but they do have a cumulative effect," she explained.

Although Watts Bayou has been used as the lagoon's discharge point since the mid-1960s, the district has been trying to eliminate that discharge point because the amount of water movement in the bayou is low.

The Waveland treatment plant, which already provides a higher degree of treatment than the lagoon and discharges into Edwards Bayou, is currently being upgraded to handle effluent from both Waveland and Bay St. Louis.

The discharge into Watts Bayou should be eliminated in 1989, Schott said.

"If this is a problem, I really sympathize with the residents of the area and we will cooperate in any way we can. I am sorry we didn't hear about the fish kill sooner," the administrator said.

Schott explained that the district's capability for dealing with a fish kill is limited, but said that some water quality tests could have been made toward determining the cause of the kill.

She asked for help from the residents of the area in making the improvements needed to eliminate the Watts Bayou discharge point.

"They can help us if they will back the district's plan for improved treatment when the issue comes up. Eventually, it will become necessary to create a special sewer and water protection tax district," Schott explained.

"They can help expedite our plans if they will come out in support of it."

Coast Electric promotes Hensley

Effective September 1, Dave Hensley will be district manager of Coast Electric Power Association's Harrison County office.

Announcement of the promotion by General Manager Robert Occhi follows the July 31 retirement of William Olson.

Through hard work and dedication, Hensley was advanced through the ranks, Occhi said.

A veteran employee of 16 years, Hensley has held the positions of staking technician, assistant engineer and system engineer.

In March 1986, he was promoted to supervisor of engineering services, in addition to being named safety coordinator.

According to Occhi, "Mr. Hensley's experience, knowledge of the area and cooperative spirit, will equip him for his newly assigned position."

Hensley holds a degree from the Ohio Technical College, is an active volunteer for the American Red Cross and is a member of the Trinity United Methodist Church in Gulfport.

Working closely with Hensley will be Rene Olier. As operations superintendent, Olier is responsible for coordinating all construction, service and right-of-way activities.

"Together this management team will continue to provide Coast Electric members in Harrison County, continuous, efficient and reliable electric service," commented Occhi.

Jackson County bank branch opens

A new full-service Gautier branch of the Pascagoula-Moss Point Bank, a division of Hancock Bank, opened Monday.

Located at 2235 Highway 90, the new Gautier branch will offer several new banking services to the Gautier community, including many never offered here before.

"The residents of Gautier deserve a full-service banking facility like the one we've built here," said a statement released jointly by Theresa M. Johnson and T. Moreno Jones, both executive vice presidents of Pascagoula-Moss Point Bank.

"Our new Gautier branch, along with our Singing River Mall branch, will allow us to better serve the people of this area," Johnson said. "It also reflects our new affiliation with Hancock Bank, which is committed to serving the growing needs of the entire Mississippi Gulf Coast community."

The New Gautier facility features such conveniences as a comfortable, spacious lobby, safe deposit boxes, loan officers, three drive-up tellers, and a drive-up, 24 hour HandyBank opening soon.

Jones said the wide variety of services now being offered is a reflection of Gautier's recent growth and development. "Gautier, as a new municipality, has come into its own," he said. "This is our way of showing our commitment to the future progress of this area."

Highlights for the Grand Opening celebration include ribbon cutting ceremonies at 9 a.m., refreshments and free gifts, and a spectacular "Pile of Dough" cash giveaway, in which customers try to guess how much money is contained in a display. The closest guess wins the money.

Warner Peterson, a native of Gautier and a Vice President of Pascagoula-Moss Point Bank, is manager of the new branch. Additional staff members include Debbie Capdepon, Mary Garner, Marie Singleton, and Nina Terral.

Peterson is a lifetime resident of Jackson County. He graduated from Perkinson Junior College and Livingston State University after attending Pascagoula High School.

Peterson is director of the Pascagoula-Moss Point Chamber of Commerce, and a member of the Gautier Rotary, American Legion, Masonic Lodge, and Elks.

He also serves as treasurer of the Jackson County Heart Association, and is a member of the Hickory Hills Country Club. He and his wife, Norma Jean have three children.

Montjoy attends D.C. small business meeting

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Paul Montjoy of Bay St. Louis attended a four-day White House Conference on Small Business in Washington D.C.

Montjoy was one of 13 Mississippi delegates elected at an April meeting in Jackson of Small Businessmen. Nine others from the state were appointed by national and state elected officials.

The conference, called by President Ronald Reagan under prodding by Congress, brought together 1,823 small business owners from all 50 states, plus the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico, to recommend a national legislative and regulatory agenda to improve the climate for American small business.

Keynote speaker at the conference was Donald T. Reagan, White House chief of staff.

Montjoy stated, "This was only the second of such conferences to have been held, with the first in 1980."

"Of the 60 resolutions pertaining to small business adopted at that time, 45 now have been passed by Congress as the law of the land,"

Montjoy added.

The Hancock County businessman continued, "The conference last week has come up with another 60 resolutions regarding small business and hopefully they will be given the same consideration by Congress as were those from the previous conference."

The number one issue with all of the delegates from across the nation was liability insurance, Montjoy said.

The delegates debated more than 350 recommendations for government action that were passed by regional conferences in June.

Those suggestions, in turn were culled from 2,232 recommendations adopted by small business owners at 57 state conferences held since last August.

"At the conference it was revealed that since 1970, approximately 30 million new jobs were created by small businesses with no net increase on the employment roles from the Fortune 500 companies in the same period," Montjoy added.

Montjoy is owner of Gulf Coast Waste.

County Agent's Notes

Our crappymyrtles have really been beautiful this year. I have noticed several different colored varieties blooming in various parts of the county. However, Mrs. Alice Newkirk, past president of the Bay-Waveland Garden Club, reports powdery mildew and aphids are becoming a problem.

Powdery mildew is most common on cool nights followed by warm days. This disease can cause blossom blight during the blooming period. To avoid this disease you should have good air circulation around your plants. Also, do not plant in low wet areas. If the disease gets out of hand, then start applying fungicides. Any formulation containing Benomyl will do.

Aphids are the worst insect pest of crappymyrtles. They can usually be controlled with one application of Malathion or Orthene.

If you are having any of these problems or other and need more information, please call me.

STOP PINE BEETLES

The pine beetle problem in many parts of Hancock County is just one example of Mother Nature's method of managing our forests. Too often, her methods are contrary to landowners' wishes.

To recover from the southern pine beetle and other effects of Mother Nature, landowners often use practices like salvage cutting, premature harvest or spraying insecticides. These kind of treatments are usually a temporary solution.

There are more effective ways to give longer-term protection of forests, including fire lanes, prescribed burning, thinning or timber stand improvement cutting. These practices reduce the risk of southern pine beetle attack by improving the condition of trees.

You can use Mother Nature to benefit your trees. When you establish the best suited trees on a site or thin a stand to avoid insect problems, you are doing things Mother Nature could eventually do. You just get the job done in a more orderly manner.

There is plenty of forestry assistance available to help you manage timber stands. Call or visit our office for details.

BEEF PROMOTION

Beginning October 1, beef producers will begin paying $1 per head for the cattle they sell to promote the beef industry. This fee is required by the Beef Promotion and Research Act of 1985, part of the 1985 farm bill.

The purpose of the fee is to strengthen the beef industry by putting it in a better position in the market place and by expanding markets for beef producers.

After the fee begins on October 1, the secretary of agriculture is required to hold a referendum among all beef producers to decide if the program is to be continued. No date for the referendum has been set.

Producers who aren't in favor of the fee can request a refund up until the referendum is held. More information is available from the Mississippi Cattle Industry Board or the county Extension Office.

FIRST DAY OF KINDERGARTEN—Kindergarten students at Waveland Elementary School admire a gingerbread man who "guided" them through the school on their first day Tuesday. The students participated in making the gingerbread, visited the cafeteria kitchen to see the cookie being baked, then went to the other classrooms at facility after the gingerbread man apparently disappeared. Principal James Baldree said that the activity was arranged to allow the students to tour their new school. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

ST. ROSE CENTER—Fifth graders at St. Rose de Lima Fifth Grade Center work on their first social studies lesson of the 1986-87 school year. Assistant Principal Betty Ann Jones reported that about 170 students registered Monday. The fifth graders have been moved to the center, which is being leased by the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District, in order to make room for kindergarten at North Bay and Waveland elementary schools. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

FIFTH GRADE—Students receive instructions for an essay on their summer vacation activities during their first day at the St. Rose de Lima Fifth Grade Center. Students at the center proceeded with class activities Monday as preparation for the facility's use by the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District during the 1986-87 school year continued. Assistant Principal Betty

Ann Jones said remaining preparations Monday included final transfer of the school's office from St. Rose de Lima Parish to the school district, installation of some equipment in the cafeteria kitchen and installation of computers for the Chapter I program. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS: muscular dystrophy and related neuromuscular diseases afflict thousands of our fellow citizens through the nation, many of them children; and

WHEREAS: the programs of basic and clinical research, and medical services maintained by the Muscular Dystrophy Association represent the only concerted effort to find the causes and develop effective treatments for these crippling disorders, and to provide patients with free medical care, and

WHEREAS: the annual Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon carries the good news of these vital services to patients coast to coast and is a primary source of nation-wide public support for these life-extending programs; and

WHEREAS: recent new insights into the nature of human muscle and of neuromuscular disease have raised hope for significant further progress in the fight against dystrophy in the foreseeable future,

NOW THEREFORE We, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, the Mayors of the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland, hereby proclaim Monday September 1, 1986 as in Hancock County, Bay St. Louis and Waveland, and urge that all citizens of this County and these Cities, join in support of the work of the Muscular Dystrophy Association by contributing to the Jerry Lewis Telethon - so all those who wait to be set free from the burdens of neuromuscular disease may have their dream fulfilled. IN WITNESS WHEREOF We have hereunto set our hand and caused the seal of the County of Hancock, the City of Bay St. Louis and the City of Waveland to be affixed this 27th of August, 1986.

ETV Brief

HISTORY COURSE

Mississippi ETV will broadcast a college credit course in American history beginning Sept. 2. Persons interested in earning credit for "The American Story: Beginnings to 1877" should contact the college where they would like to earn credit.

The following colleges and universities will be participating: East Central Junior College in Decatur; Copiah-Lincoln Junior College in Wesson; the Hinds Junior College District in Jackson; Jackson State University in Jackson; Meridian Junior College in Meridian; the Jackson County and Jefferson Davis Campuses of Mississippi Gulf Coast Junior College in Gautier and Gulfport, respectively; Mississippi Valley State University in Itta Bena; Northwest Mississippi Junior College in Senatobia; and Pearl River Junior College in Poplarville.

Two lessons will be broadcast weekly: at noon, Tuesdays and Thursdays, beginning Sept. 2, with rebroadcasts at 1 and 1:30 p.m., Saturdays. The course will conclude Dec. 13.

A textbook, "An American History: Volume I to 1877" by Rebecca Brooks Gruver, is available through the participating colleges.

Films on location at historic sights like Jamestown, Plymouth Plantation, Williamsburg, Boston, Lexington, Concord, Gettysburg and Sumter, "The American Story" provides a portrayal of the important events and crises that represent the past, and the political leaders, reformers, artisans, explorers, farmers, soldiers, immigrants, industrialists and artists who helped shape it.

KNIGHT HONORED—Gerard Godfrey, right, of Pass Christian Isles, received the 'Knight of the Month' award from Teddy Morel of Kiln, grand knight of Pere LeDuc Council No. 1522, Knights of Columbus in Bay St. Louis. REAL VIEWS ON REAL ESTATE

Dr. Dennis Tosh is holder of the J. Ed Turner Chair of Real Estate at The University of Mississippi

By Dr. Dennis Tosh

SOLE OWNERSHIP HAS ADVANTAGES

Q. I recently had a bad experience owning some rental property with another investor. I have decided to buy property by myself. Would you list some of the advantages of such ownership? D. R., Meridian

A. Dear D. R.:

When title to real estate is held by one person, it is called an estate in severalty or sole ownership. Although the word "severalty" seems to imply that several people own a single property, the correct meaning can be easily remembered by thinking of "severed" ownership. The major advantage of sole ownership for an individual is flexibility. As a sole owner, you can make all the decisions regarding a property without having to get the agreement of co-owners.

You can decide what property or properties to buy, when to buy, and how much to offer. You can decide whether to pay all cash or seek a loan by using the property as collateral.

Once bought, you control how the property will be used, how much will be paid for it, and how much it will be managed.

If you decide to sell, you alone decide when to offer the property for sale and at what price and terms.

But freedom and responsibility go together and, as is true with any form of ownership, there may be some disadvantages of your owning real estate as the sole owner.

For example, if you purchase a rental property you must determine the prevailing rents, find tenants, prepare contracts, collect the rent, and keep the property in repair.

Otherwise, you must hire and pay someone else to manage the property for you.

Another deterrent to sole ownership of real estate is the high entry cost. This form of real estate ownership is not possible for someone with only a few hundred dollars or perhaps a few thousand dollars to invest. Your ability to borrow and your credit worthiness will have to stand alone.

For answers to questions, write Dr. Dennis Tosh, P. O. Box 295, University, Mississippi 38677.

Pass Garden Club to display album quilt

Le Belle Arti Center at Davis Avenue and Second Street in Pass Christian will display a handmade album quilt executed by Pass Christian Garden Club members.

The show will open Sunday, Sept. 7 with a reception between 3 and 5 p.m.

According to Laura Fischer of 'Antique Quilts and Americana,' quilts are more popular now than they have been in years.

In fact, some antique quilts are now commanding the $30,000 and $40,000 prices previously reserved only for fine art.

"Currently," she continues, "one of the most expensive types of quilts is the pictorial, which include town scenes, farm animals, buildings and other images." The garden club quilt falls in this category.

Concurrently with the quilt show, a display of rugs by Jerry Gremillion and Susan Scarborough will be shown.

The rugs are grained canvas, the rug is designed and hand-painted by Gremillion then coated with polyurethane to resist wear and tear. They also may be hung as tapestry.

Additionally, there will be an exhibit of hand-woven rugs by Helen Currie, owner of The Weavers' Collection, 1020 West Beach, Pass Christian; they range from 24 by 36 inches to 36 by 45 inches and are executed of mixed yarns, wool and of modified corduroy techniques.

The public is invited.

THE QUILT
In September, 1984 a group of women from the Pass Christian Garden Club proposed making a Mississippi Album Quilt.

Shortly thereafter 18 12-inch squares were framed out to various members to be appliqued, or cross-stitched, using Mississippi State symbols.

The symbols chosen include mockingbird, Southern belle, country church, Biloxi lighthouse, gazebo in Pass Christian War Memorial Park, cotton boll, state map of Mississippi, magnolia, plus honey bee, state capital, state flag, bottlenosed dolphin, seafood square, oysters, pine bough garden club symbol, wood duck, hokie cat, ante-bellum house and the white-tailed deer.

Each alternate calico square was counterpane-quilted in the Cherokee Rose pattern.

A smaller version of the same appears on three of the four corners of the quilt.

The bottom right-handed corner bears the date the quilt was completed. This project was undertaken by 25 women, with about a quarter of those doing the actual quilting on the frame.

This 82-inch by 105-inch handmade reversible quilt was completed in July of 1986, and will be the prize for some lucky person when the ticket is drawn on Dec. 4 at the Pass Christian Garden Club's Silver Tea.

The tickets are available through any garden club member for $1 each, and the winner need not be present at the time of drawing.

The proceeds will go towards the Pass Christian Garden Club's Building Fund.

The long, lazy Labor Day weekend, in my "growing-up" years, was our Swan Song to happy summer days on the Gulf Coast, into which we crammed all the sights and sounds and memories possible before we packed away the swim suits and crab nets and such and headed back to New Orleans - and the schoolbooks!

For, in those long-ago days, we didn't start back to school until after Labor Day - but, in these modern days, of course, schools all around, including those on the Coast, open before Labor Day.

We can all still enjoy this last, long weekend to the fullest, and many of our homes will be crowded to the fullest, as well, with visiting relatives and friends.

So, let's relax, and plan a weekend of easy meals - as many as possible centered around outdoor activities - for, while we've been bemoaning the heat, we'll sooner or later be bemoaning the cold weather - that's human nature.

The aroma and flavors of a meal cooked and served outdoors are tantalizingly special, whether the meal itself is fancy or simple, or whether the grill is a small improvised one or a mammoth barbecue pit or grill.

Our favorite foods for the barbecue pit are ribs or pork chops - or chicken or shrimp, all well marinated beforehand and liberally basted during the cooking process.

But, in these days of ever-spiralling costs, why not settle on juicy hamburgers in deference to the budget? A charcoal-broiled hamburger, well sauced, is a treat, don't you think?

And, here's an ever-so-easy meal sure to delight the youngsters - and those not so young - when you call them to dinner. Here's:

HOBO'S HAMBURGERS
2 lbs. ground beef
8 medium to large Irish potatoes, sliced
4 medium to large onions, sliced
12 slices sharp Cheddar cheese
Tabasco, Worcestershire sauce, pepper, salt to your taste

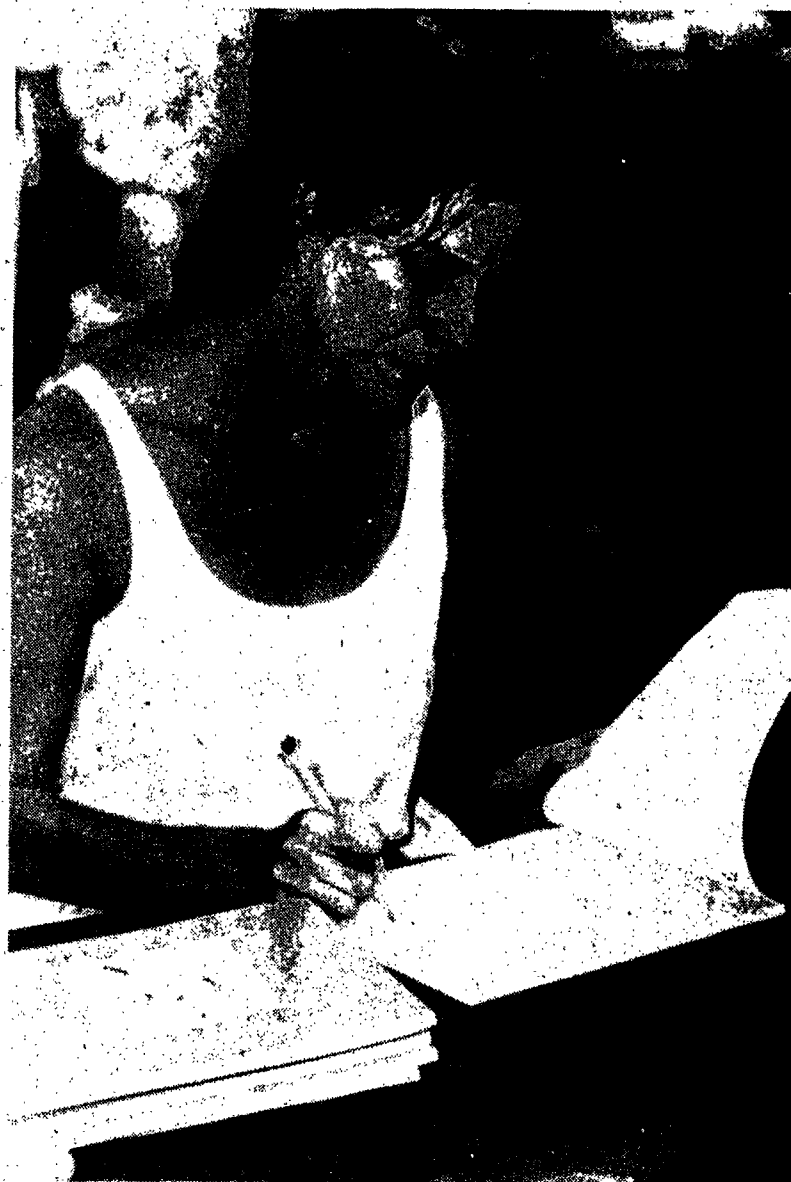

Season the ground beef to your taste - I like to be liberal with the Worcester and Tabasco, for that extra tang, but suit your own taste; you may prefer a more bland taste. I also like to mix in a spoonful or so of fresh, chopped parsley.

At any rate, make into a dozen patties, and place on your "hobo" sacks - a foil square for each burger - and be sure to make the bottom double-thick, so that the meat doesn't stick to the foil.

Top each burger with generous layers of the sliced potatoes and onions, dotting with butter, or margarine, and topping each with a slice of cheese. Fold over the foil to make your "hobo" sack and cook over a hot charcoal grill for 15 minutes or so.

P.S. You may like to pour barbecue sauce over the whole business before closing the sacks.

In rising industry

Furniture makers discuss trends

MISSISSIPPI STATE—New developments in the state's rising furniture industry were the subjects of the first meeting of the Mississippi Furniture, Fixtures and Cabinet Manufacturers' conference held recently at Mississippi State University.

Mississippi's furniture industry has grown dramatically in becoming a major business in the state, said Dr. Warren Thompson, dean of MSU's School of Forest Resources.

"Forty years ago when furniture mass production was introduced in Mississippi, plenty of labor and natural resources were great strengths of the state," said Andy Morris of Airline Manufacturing Company Inc. in Columbus.

But Morris said competition from foreign sources and government regulations that didn't exist 40 years ago are now hurting the industry.

In a panel discussion on exports and imports, George Kelly of Southern Hardwood Lumber Manufacturing Association and National Lumber Exporters Association of Memphis, Tenn., said Taiwan furniture producers did not have costs associated with meeting strict government regulations on noise, dust and equipment.

He also said the quality of Taiwan furniture products is inferior to U.S. furniture.

"If the Taiwanese expect to compete in the furniture industry, they will have to raise their quality," Kelly said.

Pal Salmon, general manager of Flex Steel Industries Inc. in Starkville, agreed that foreign competition had hurt the Mississippi furniture industry. But he also said it had made them better managers. He said his company can compete with foreign competition through on-time deliveries and better quality products.

Noel Guthrie, senior consultant with the Research and Development Center in Jackson, gave recent findings on the economic impact of the state's furniture industry. Furniture manufacturing is concentrated primarily in the 21-county northeast Mississippi area.

A study done by the R and D Center and Tennessee Valley Authority found 17,830 people employed in the furniture industry in northeast Mississippi. Total furniture manufacturing employment for the state is 18,500.

Total income produced for the state from furniture manufacturing was $458.8 million in 1985. Guthrie predicted income would rise 2.2 percent this year and 1.4 percent in 1987 in the state.

Mississippi's furniture industry is second in the nation to North Carolina's. Experts predict that Mississippi may some day become number one.

Guthrie called the furniture industry "one of the last cradles of entrepreneurship" left for people to enter.

"You can make a lot of money or lose everything in it," he said.

Dr. Sara Bagby, head of the department of home economics at MSU, said Mississippi's furniture industry produces 80 percent of living room furniture found in middle-income homes in the U.S.

She said consumers are older, better educated and have more money to spend than ever before. The typical consumer is married, female and takes three months to decide on a purchase.

Ms. Bagby also said homes are smaller because housing costs have increased.

"Furniture must be smaller and of a multi-purpose design," she said. She said although early American and traditional styles are most popular in the South, contemporary styles lead in the rest of the U.S.

Sales of office furniture continue to increase while sales of residential furniture are in a slump. Ms. Bagby said residential furniture is expected to rebound in 1987.

Pass schools open Friday

Pass Christian public schools open Friday with all cafeterias to be open and with school buses transporting all students who live a mile or more from the school they attend.

New students enrolling in kindergarten through fourth grade should report for registration at DeLisle Elementary School or at Pass Christian Elementary School any day through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

New students in grades five through 12 should report to Pass Christian Middle School or Pass Christian High School during the same hours.

Superintendent LeRoy Lizana said that parents or guardians must accompany the students to the schools for registration.

To enroll, a student must have an official certified birth certificate bearing a state file number.

State law requires that all students enrolling in first grade be 6 years old on or before Sept. 1, while kindergarten students must be 5 years old before that date.

All students must have a health certificate that was issued by the county Health Department or a physician.

Those students who have a immunization record on file in the school office will not be issued a new card by the Health Department for the 1986-87 school term. Parents should check school offices before Friday to learn if their child's record is on file.

LUCY V. HAZEUR of Pass Christian has accepted a social work position with Back Bay Missions of Biloxi, a United Church of Christ Agency specializing in provision of emergency food, clothing and shelter services. The agency also operates thrift shop and food pantry. Hazeur, who served for six years as Hancock County coordinator of Gulf Coast Community Action Agency at the Webb Center in Bay St. Louis, is a New Orleans, La. native and holds a bachelor of science degree in education from USM. She also taught in the Bay St. Louis public schools for four years. She is founder and remains as chairperson of Hancock County Community Services Planning Council. (Echo staff photo by Edgar Perez)

Shuttle external tank eyed as base for space telescope

NEW ORLEANS, La.— Martin Marietta Corporation has been awarded a NASA contract to study the feasibility of outfitting a Space Shuttle external tank as a space-based Gamma Ray Imaging Telescope to probe the source of gamma rays in the universe.

Awarded by the NASA Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala., the study will be performed by Martin Marietta Michoud Aerospace, in the corporation's New Orleans operating company which builds the giant external tank for the Space Shuttle program.

Studies have determined that the spent tanks, 154 feet long and 27.6 feet in diameter, could be carried in orbit rather than discarded just before the Shuttle achieves orbit.

Once in space, any residual propellants could be expelled from the tank. Astronauts then could assemble telescope components within the aft section, a 96.7-foot long liquid hydrogen tank.

Astronauts could reach the inside of the tank via an existing 36-inch aft manhole port or through a future modification of the tank. The tank would then be pressurized to provide the needed environment for the gamma ray detection system.

To reduce costs, components of the gamma ray imaging telescope could be carried in the Shuttle's cargo bay along with other payloads.

Dr. David Koch of the Smithsonian Institution Astrophysical Observatory, Cambridge, Mass., developed the concept of the gamma ray telescope using the external tank and will provide the scientific requirements for the telescope's components.

The study of gamma rays opens a new window on the astrophysical processes occurring throughout the universe, according to Dr. Koch.

Processes that can be uniquely examined using gamma rays include nuclear interactions of energetic nuclei, electromagnetic processes, gamma ray line producing processes, and matter-antimatter annihilation.

Using the telescope, Dr. Koch anticipates that it will take five years to gather enough data to determine the sources of gamma rays from the universe.

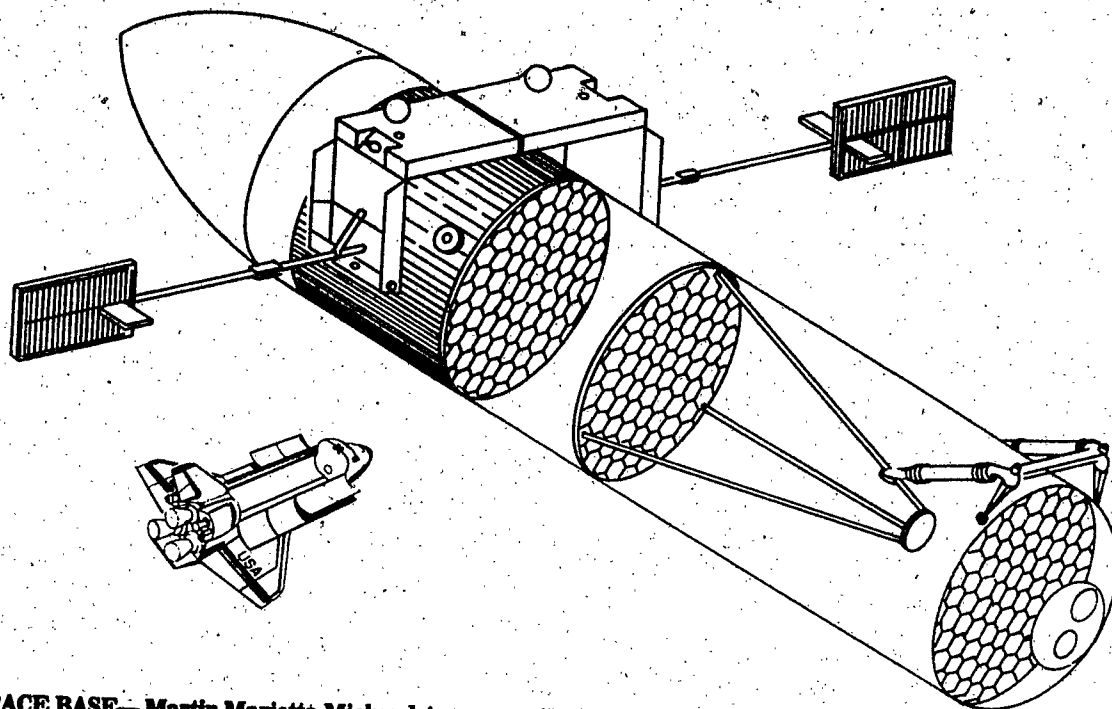

Because the telescope would require periodic maintenance, it would probably orbit near the planned U.S. Space Station between 200 and 300 nautical miles above Earth.

NASA plans to conduct a separate gamma ray survey in the late 1990s using an orbiting Gamma Ray Observatory.

The proposed Gamma Ray Imaging Telescope would follow up the work on the gamma ray observatory with more accurate pointing studies.

Martin Marietta Manufactures the Space Shuttle external fuel tank at the NASA Michoud Assembly Facility under contract to the space agency's Marshall Space Flight Center.

SPACE BASE—Martin Marietta Michoud Aerospace is studying the feasibility of outfitting a Space Shuttle external tank as a space-based Gamma Ray Imaging Telescope, depicted here in Earth orbit. The telescope would be used to probe the source of gamma rays in the universe. The study contract was awarded by NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala., and will be performed in New Orleans, La.

MCI outlines employee alcohol-drug test plan

Mason Chamberlain Inc. reports its Army Ammunition Plant at NSTL will begin a mandatory substance abuse screening program for all MCI employees.

The testing will be combined with a plant supported rehabilitation program for employees found to have a drug or alcohol problem.

Mason Chamberlain has developed the substance abuse program at the urging of the Army to support a long-standing work rule against the abuse of alcohol and drugs by its 1,400 plus employees.

"MCI wants an environment that promotes a physical and mental condition which will allow the employees to perform their respective duties safely and competently," said Dale Claybaugh, MCI's industrial relations manager. "The program that has been developed will help achieve this goal since it is one of the most progressive of its type in the country," he added.

The exact date of the testing will not be announced, but enough time will be given employees to voluntarily discontinue their substance abuse before they are randomly tested, Claybaugh said.

All employees—including management—will be tested initially.

Following the initial test, follow-up random testing will be scheduled. The Roche Laboratories of Burlington, N.C. will conduct the two-part test.

Urinalysis specimens initially testing positive will then be tested on a more exact mechanism known as a GM/Mass Specometer.

Employees who have a drug or alcohol abuse problem will have the opportunity to participate in a rehabilitation program, without jeopardizing their continued employment.

The employee must, however, successfully complete the rehabilitation program and thereafter not resume their prior abuse of drugs or alcohol.

The plant is willing to "work with" all employees who desire to rid themselves of a substance abuse problem and who will help create a safer working environment at the plant, the MCI officials noted.

Commodity issue date announced

The Hancock County Food Stamp Office will issue commodities on Wednesday, Sept. 24 at the American Legion Hall on Coleman Avenue in Waveland.

Hours of issuance will be 9:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. or until all items are given away.

In order to receive the cheese and butter, applicants must present a voucher, signed and dated by the head of household or their spouse, and bring it to the American Legion on the date of issuance.

If a voucher that is distributed with food stamps is lost, the household will not be able to receive the commodities, for only one voucher will be issued per family.

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Counting on added depth and experienced players, the Hancock North Central Hawks have set their sights on the district championship. The Hawks have 25 players returning from last year including 11 starters, some who played both offensively and defensively.

Head Coach Irvin Favre said another goal for the Hawks will be to give each starting position to a different player.

"We have many outstanding athletes who could play both offense and defense but are hoping to have the depth needed to allow them play only one way," he said.

This will give a lot more team members a chance to play, Favre added.

Another change in this year's team is the addition of ninth grade players to the varsity team.

This will eliminate the ninth grade schedule and add Joe Shaw to the varsity's coaching squad.

A major concern for Favre for the coming season is to stop the other teams from scoring a lot of points.

Favre said although the Hawks scored a lot of points last year, there was also a large number of points scored against them.

The Hawks will have a lot going for them this year and should be very competitive, he added.

"If the players stay healthy we should be able to win every game we play," he said.

The first game of the season for the Hawks will be Sept. 5 when they will host the St. John Eagles.

Hawk team members are Dwayne Acker, Tirus Jackson, Roy Davis, Charles Burton, Jeff Moran, Ronald (Doodle) Doyle, Brett Favre, Clifton Carter, Donald Vince, Tony Hickman, John Eakins, Guy (Tater) Graham, Skipper Billeaud, Vincent Cuevas, Brian Myers, Peter Greco, Dwayne Peterson, Tim Prince, Casey Hoda, Daryl Booker, Chris Lacoste, Allen Prince, Frank Miller, Frank Greco, Barry Wickton, Roger Caplinger, Tony Spivey, Larry Beech, Byron Peterson, Damon Foy, Rene Chiasson, Mario Greco, Jesse Dupree, Scott Austill, Audie Sims, Heath Necaise, Joe Harvey, Norris Chaisson, Donald Anderson, Marty Smith, Toby Dastigue, Chip Bennett, Todd Shiyou.

Managers are Richard Loper Jr., Juan Riley and Jan Fletcher Jr.

Also assisting Favre will be Coaches Rocky Gaudin and Tim Favre.

Pirates looking for better season

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
With a host of returning starters, the Pass Christian Pirates are looking to improve over last year's season record.

Head Coach Alton Wright said he expects a much better season this year due to a stronger offensive line. "The defensive line will also be much stronger because of the seven returning starters," he said.

Returning defensive starters for the Pirates include Kevin Charlot, David Vontoure, Jason Dedeaux, Nate Benard, Horace Lizana, Shinnall Conway and Bobby Dedeaux.

With adjustments positions this year include J. Dedeaux and Shinnall Conway, linebackers; D. Vontoure, noseguard; Benard and Kevin Charlot defensive ends; H. Lizana and Hilton McKay, cornerbacks; Greg Moffet and John Lizana, tackles; Steven Swanier, strong safety; and B. Dedeaux, free safety.

Also seeing action will be Derrick Benoit and Mervin Janet as linebackers and Eric Dawkins as defensive end, Wright said.

Moffet, Janet, Charlot, Benard, J. Dedeaux and B. Dedeaux are returning offensive starters.

This year's offensive starting line includes Benard and Janet, guards; Moffet, center; J. Lizana and J. Dedeaux, tackles; B. Dedeaux, split end; Charlot, tight end; Swanier, wingback, H. Lizana, quarterback; D. Vontoure, fullback; and Conway as tailback.

According to Wright, James Redmond will also see action as quarterback; McKay as tailback; D. Benoit as wingback or tailback; and Eric Dawkins as fullback or tight end.

Wright is assisted by offensive and defensive line coach, Joseph Brown and Tim Bryan in charge of receivers and defensive backs.

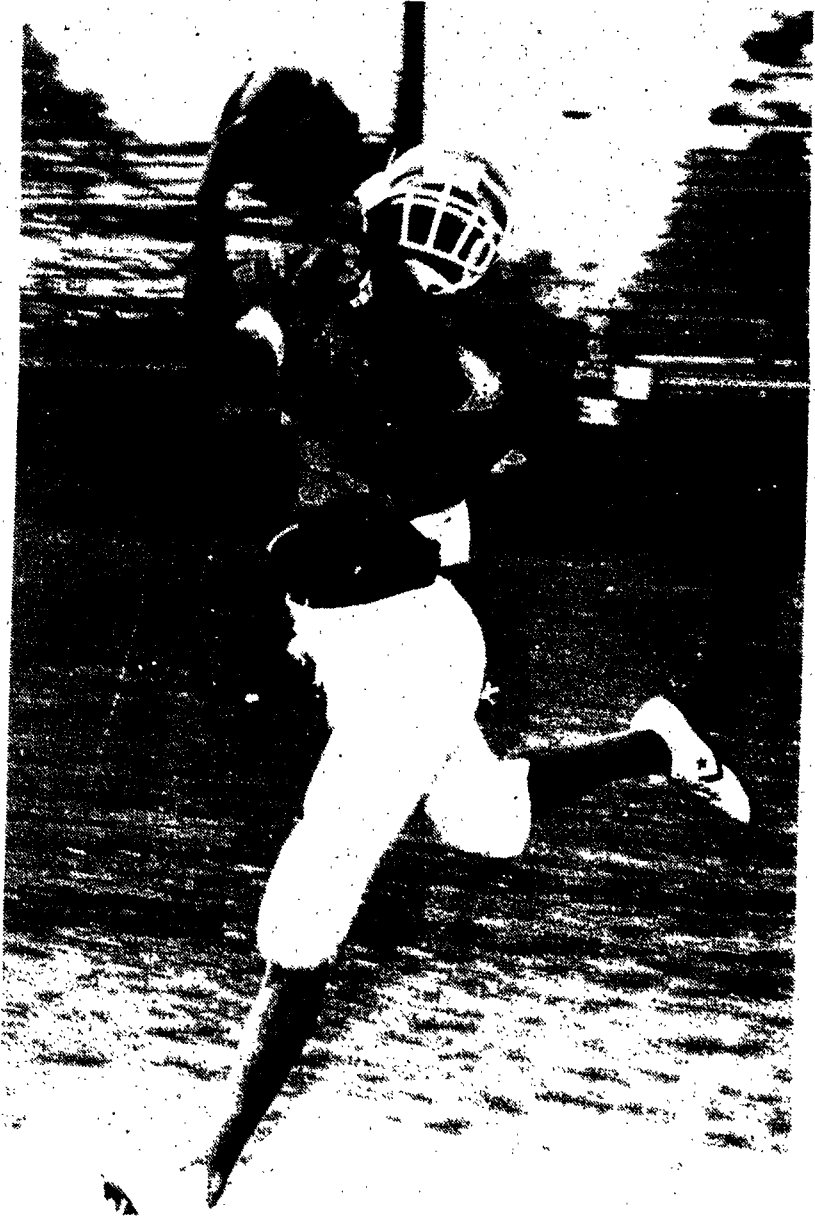

Pirate team managers are John Mill and Melvin Swanier.

Bennett joins USM sports information staff

HATTIESBURG— West Virginia native Chuck Bennett has joined the University of Southern Mississippi sports information staff, according to assistant director of public relations/SID Regiel Napier and athletic director Bill McLellan.

Bennett joins USM after spending the past year as assistant sports information director at the University of Alabama at Birmingham. He will serve in a similar capacity at USM, working primarily with the print media and handling a variety of athletic related publications.

A Weirton, W.Va. native, Bennett spent one season as a student assistant at West Virginia University where he earned his bachelor's degree in 1984. He also spent one year with the Metro Conference office as an intern. He currently is working on a master's degree in athletic administration.

Bennet is single.

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, AUGUST 23, 1986-3B

Newsletter

WAVELAND WATERFRONT

The Mississippi Commission on Wildlife Conservation continued its long-term commitment to coastal cities by providing financial support to the City of Waveland for urban waterfront planning.

The study will investigate and recommend various activities and methods on which increased access, recreational facilities, use and upland infrastructure can be enhanced for economic development while maintaining environmental quality.

The July 21 action by the commission added to the growing list of urban waterfront planning projects supported by the Bureau.

Others include Bay St. Louis, Pascagoula, Biloxi and Gulfport. The $18,000 subgrant award is part of the Bureau's annual grant from the Office of Coastal Resource Management (CZM) (NOAA) Department of Commerce.

The award is to be matched by 20 percent local funds as in-kind services.

For additional information call BMR Coastal Programs Chief Jerry Mitchell, (601) 864-4602.

PLAN AVAILABLE

Copies of the Port of Pascagoula Special Management Area (SMA) Plan are available for distribution through the Bureau's Coastal Program Division. The 200-page document represents Mississippi's first SMA plan and is the first of its type on the Gulf Coast. The Plan contains provisions for striking a balance between competing economic benefits derived from waterfront industrial development and preservation of coastal resources (seafood, marsh). EXPECT MORE OYSTERS

Saltwater Fisheries Division biologists completed oyster reef rehabilitation work on the Henderson Point and Pass Christian Tonging Reefs last month. In addition to planting some 10,000 cubic yards of clamshell to serve as cultch material, several hundred acres of reef site were cultivated to help uncover fresh substrate. Market sized oysters can be expected to develop from this work in approximately 18 months.

DOUBLE RIGS

In action taken in July, the Commission on Wildlife Conservation adopted a regulation change that has redefined the closure line for double-rig vessels in state waters south and west of Cat Island.

The new closure line in that area begins at a point "on the Louisiana/Mississippi border due south of Beacon 1 at the intersection of Grand Island Channel and Marianne Channel; then runs due north to that beacon; then northeasterly along the Marianne Channel through Beacon N 22, through Beacon N 12, then through Beacon 8, then to Beacon 7, and then east-northeasterly along the most direct line to the range beacon located approximately 2.2 miles due west of Cat Island, then to the westernmost point of Cat Island."

Bennett joins USM sports information staff

HATTIESBURG— West Virginia native Chuck Bennett has joined the University of Southern Mississippi sports information staff, according to assistant director of public relations/SID Regiel Napier and athletic director Bill McLellan.

Bennett joins USM after spending the past year as assistant sports information director at the University of Alabama at Birmingham. He will serve in a similar capacity at USM, working primarily with the print media and handling a variety of athletic related publications.

A Weirton, W.Va. native, Bennett spent one season as a student assistant at West Virginia University where he earned his bachelor's degree in 1984. He also spent one year with the Metro Conference office as an intern. He currently is working on a master's degree in athletic administration.

Bennet is single.

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, AUGUST 23, 1986-3B

Newsletter

WAVELAND WATERFRONT

The Mississippi Commission on Wildlife Conservation continued its long-term commitment to coastal cities by providing financial support to the City of Waveland for urban waterfront planning.

The study will investigate and recommend various activities and methods on which increased access, recreational facilities, use and upland infrastructure can be enhanced for economic development while maintaining environmental quality.

The July 21 action by the commission added to the growing list of urban waterfront planning projects supported by the Bureau.

Others include Bay St. Louis, Pascagoula, Biloxi and Gulfport. The $18,000 subgrant award is part of the Bureau's annual grant from the Office of Coastal Resource Management (CZM) (NOAA) Department of Commerce.

The award is to be matched by 20 percent local funds as in-kind services.

For additional information call BMR Coastal Programs Chief Jerry Mitchell, (601) 864-4602.

TOP AWARDS—Bay Senior High Cheerleaders returned from a recent Elite Cheerleading Camp at Gulf Coast Junior College's Perkinston Campus with superior ratings in all eight evaluations. Other trophies won during the five-day session include squad and sponsor spirit sticks, first runnerup in cheer evaluation, best overall chant, best overall dance routine, best overall squad, and a star cheerleader designation to Captain Rina Roberson. Squad members are, seated from left, Missy Monti, Molly Weems, Natalie Noonan, Debbie Pierce, Paula Farve; and standing, Nancy Martin, Roberson, Kim Delcuze, Sherri Carver, and Co-Captain Sharon Raymond. Golden Eagle practice sessions focusing on Sept. 7 opener

HATTIESBURG— Fall football practice at the University of Southern Mississippi continues to progress toward a season opener with Northeast Louisiana Sept. 6 in Roberts Stadium on the USM campus.

The Golden Eagles put in their final "shorts only" practice Tuesday, Aug. 19, and put on the pads for the first time the following day.

Two-a-days are scheduled to continue as long as the coaches feel they are beneficial, and thus far head coach Jim Carmody has been impressed with both the condition of his squad and the quality of the practice session.

While fans may be looking forward to the Alabama, Mississippi State, Texas A&M, and Kentucky portion of the schedule, Carmody and his staff continue to do everything possible to prepare for more immediate tasks, namely Northeast Louisiana.

Carmody is quick to point out that this year's opening opponent has 58 of 69 lettermen and 20 of 22 starters returning from an '85 team that finished with a 6-5 record, losing a couple of close ones in the process.

Looking at those numbers, it's not hard to see why Golden Eagle coaches are concerned with making sure their players get ready only for the season opener and not make the mistake of looking ahead.

Spirit also continues to soar as the season nears, not only on the field but among fans and alumni as well.

New athletic director Bill McLellan, Carmody and his staff and others have met with record crowds at support group gatherings throughout the southeast, highlighted by the thousand plus fans who attended the annual Meet the Eagles Barbecue to welcome the team back to the campus.

Football season tickets also remain on sale at the athletic ticket office in Green Coliseum, as well as single game tickets to all 11 of USM's games.

Season tickets to the four home games are priced at $56 dollars with "uper Saver" season tickets and single game tickets available at $28 and $7 each, respectively.

In order to be considered a season ticket holder, the Super Saver tickets must be purchased in groups of 15 or more. A special youth season ticket also is available at $28.

Tickets may be purchased at Green Coliseum during normal business hours Monday through Friday (including the lunch hour), and additional information may be obtained by calling the athletic ticket office at 601/266-5017 or by using the toll free in-state WATS line, 1-800-222-1605. The ticket office, along with other athletic offices, will be open Monday, Sept. 1, for those fans who would like to use the Labor Day holiday to purchase tickets or take care of other athletic related business.

Game times for all home games this season have been moved to 7 p.m. in an effort to alleviate some of the sun problems that affected the East stands last season when games started at 6 p.m.

WILDCAT FIELD GENERALS—When the Pearl River College Wildcats take on Coahoma Saturday night at Clarksdale, head coach Mike Nelson, center, will unleash his Wishbone attack with quarterbacks Scott Favre, left, and Gerald Tillman leading the way. Favre, a sophomore from Hancock North Central, will start and freshman Tillman is also expected to see action. The first Wildcat home game is Saturday, Sept. 6 against Jones.

day, Sept. 6. The opening home game in Delta Golden Stadium begins at 7:30 p.m. PRC assistant coaches include, from left, Bill Martin, Mike Harris and Herbert Morris.

Nelson building Wildcat roster

POPLARVILLE— Pearl River College football coach Mike Nelson had some bad news and good news this past week.

The bad news was that big defensive tackle Jerry Geathers (6'8" - 245) of Georgetown, S.C. left for home Monday.

"He (Geathers) just got homesick," Nelson said. "He just packed his bags and car and headed home."

The good news is that Tuesday afternoon Nelson had signed his own rendition of the Chicago Bears' "Refrigerator." Offensive tackle Devin Rogers, who had signed with Jackson State out of West Jefferson in New Orleans, is on campus and the team.

Rogers is 6'5" and 300 pounds. "He's an excellent athlete," Nelson said. "Our only problem is we can't find a uniform to fit him."

The edition of Rogers was a welcomed relief because Picayune's Herbert Bridgers, a 6'1-246 pound offensive tackle had orthoscopic knee surgery this week and will miss the first three weeks of the season.

The Wildcats will field 38 freshmen and 17 sophomores when they take on Coahoma at Clarksdale Saturday, Aug. 30. Five of the Wildcats certified on the 1985 team did not make the final cut this year. Nelson has 22 players from outside Mississippi. Louisiana has the majority as 16 made the Wildcat team, while three players are from Alabama and one each from Georgia, South Carolina and Kentucky.

Bassfield has the most district players on the team with six while Picayune and Bay St. Louis can boast five each. Forrest County AHS had four players make the final cut while Pearl River Central, Hancock North Central and Hattiesburg Blair have two each.

Other district players are from Sumrall, St. Stanislaus, Lumberton, Columbia, Poplarville, Oak Grove and East Marion.

Soccer registration remains open

Bay Area Youth Soccer continues registration for the 1986-87 season. Registration at Bay Catholic has been changed from Wednesday, Sept. 3 to Thursday, Sept. 4 due to a conflict with another meeting. Registration dates are: Thursday, Aug. 28, 7-9 p.m., Virginia Hall Christ Episcopal; Thursday, Sept. 4, 7-9 p.m., Bay Catholic Elementary; Saturday, Sept. 6, 9-11 a.m., McDonald's Restaurant. Registration closes Sept. 6. Teams will be formed and all late registrants will be placed on a team only if an opening is available. Registration fee is $20.

Wildcats to open Saturday

POPLARVILLE—Pearl River College will begin its quest for a record 15th state championship Saturday against North Division foe Coahoma at Clarksdale. The PRC Wildcats have not played the Coahoma Tigers since 1983 and they have never lost to the "Delta" based team since beginning play back in 1980.

Offensively the Wildcats will be stronger and quicker this year. At least that's the way sophomore starting quarterback Scott Favre sees it. Favre, from Hancock North Central, is the only returning starter on offense. "We have a bigger, better line," Favre said. "We are more together as a team."

Nelson switched to the Wishbone this year to utilize his stable of backs and his lines' quickness. As Favre said, "execution is the key to the bone."

Pearl River's offensive line averages 243 pounds. Starting at center is Dell Knox (250) of East Marion. The offensive guards are Kenny Barron (240) of Forrest County and Jordan Bradford (230) of St. Stanislaus. The offensive tackles are Geg Bonds (248) of Paducah, Ky. and Craig Breland (245) of Bay St. Louis.

The defensive backs are Larry Copeland (190) of Bassfield, Dennis Rhodes (180) of Bay St. Louis, and Anthony Averette (175) of Clarksdale.

All Wildcat games will be broadcast over WOLC-FM 108 of Poplarville.

dockside facilities at the East and West Bank Shipyard. The Commission voted to deny the request.

Mississippi Air National Guard requested permission to construct a new barge dock and terminal facility on the south side of Bayou Bernard Industrial Seaway, Gulfport. A pier, approximately 150 feet long with a 28 foot x 30 foot "T" will be constructed with mooring dolphins at the head of the pier. The Commission voted to approve the request by the Mississippi Air National Guard based on the public's interest to be served.

G & S, Inc. requested permission to construct a marina in Back Bay of Biloxi, Bay View Avenue, Biloxi, Mississippi. The Commission voted to take no action on this request.

Gulf Pride Enterprises, Inc., requested after-the-fact authorization for the placement of shell material and concrete rip-rap within the coastal wetlands as a means of shoreline protection adjacent to their facility on Bay View Avenue off the Bay of Biloxi.

The Commission approved the after-the-fact request with the following conditions: Concrete rip-rap shall be removed; Gulf Pride Enterprises, Inc. submit a request to the Secretary of State's office requesting a base for the Public Trust Land in which the shells were placed; Gulf Pride Enterprises, Inc. pays to the Department of Wildlife Conservation/Bureau of Marine Resources a fine in the amount of $1,000 for performing the work without obtaining a valid permit.

The Commission on Wildlife Conservation ordered that a cease and desist order be forwarded to Noel J. Skrimetta for placing concrete rip-rap in the Mississippi Sound adjacent to his property in Biloxi. The commission further ordered Skrimetta to start removing the rip-rap material within 30 days and to have the material completely removed within 90 days in order to be in compliance with the marina permit issued by the commission in October, 1982.

Principals' group sees revival of parent, teacher rapport

As schools across America open their doors for another year, they are likely to find a little bit of the old and a little of the new, according to the chief executive of the nation's largest school administrator organization.

"Two of the oldest traditions in education will receive renewed attention this year," predicts Scott Thomson, executive director, National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP).

"Cooperation between teachers and principals will be greater than in recent years as they concentrate on ways to work together in improving student learning. We will also see increased initiatives by parents to help students. The parent-school relationship is the oldest thing in education, but new ideas are being implemented for parents to become part of the school team," Thomson added.

Thomson also believes that the 1986-87 school year will witness greater scrutiny of high school and college athletics and new advances in educational technology. He specifically predicts that for the first time schools will begin serious use of laser disc.

As educators look toward restructuring schools, the partnership between teachers and principals will be renewed, according to Thomson.

"We all know that a positive school climate, which includes good relationships between teachers and principals, is a necessity for student learning," he said. "Teachers and principals have been cited as key ingredients to having effective schools. Now they are focusing on their common interest, and that's student success. We are about to see better working relationships than we have had for over a decade."

The role that parents can play in helping students succeed will also gain more attention.

"The simple truth is that educators can't do it alone," Thomson explained. "If we want students to reach their fullest potential, we need the support of the family. And while there are a greater number of single parents across the land, more and more schools are encouraging parents to become involved in their youngster's education. Schools are sending home specific suggestions for parents with the plea that students will do better when the school-parent partnership is restored.

The home is the first and most important school for youngsters."

There will be a more powerful microscope probing at the role of sports in education, the NASSP chief executive predicted.

"With the recent attention on the relationship between athletics and academics at the college level, people are beginning to scrutinize the high school athlete," said Thomson.

"We know that with the proper emphasis athletics can play a beneficial

As one example, Thomson cited recent Standard University research which showed that when student athletes spend up to five hours a week in sports, they achieve better in the classroom than the average student. However, when they devote role in the school program, but the key is finding the right balance."

10 or more hours per week to athletics, their academic performance is worse than the average.

Thomson also expects laser disc technology to move into classrooms this year, especially in math and English.

"This technology brings students the advantages of the computer plus the visual screen," he reported.

"Last year laser software was used on a trial basis in Tennessee schools. Students were excited about it, and we are ready for this technology to enter the classroom."

These four thrusts should contribute to the trend toward greater student achievement this year, and all America should support them, Thomson urged.

Lindsay, Baldree receive American Legion awards

Don Decker, past-commander of the Bourgeois-Stieffel-Ray Post 77 of the American Legion in Waveland recently presented The American Legion Certificate of School Award to two Waveland Elementary School Fifth Grade Students at the school's annual awards banquet.

Receiving the awards for 1986 were Lucy Lindsay and James D. (Jimmy) Baldree Jr.

This Certificate of Distinguished Achievement is awarded each year by the American Legion to the young man and the young lady of the outgoing class and are chosen by their teachers.

The award reads "In Further Recognition of the possession of those high qualities of Courage, Honor, Leadership, Patriotism, Scholarship and Service which are necessary to the preservation and protection of the fundamental institutions of our government and the advancement of society."

Lucy is the daughter of Jeannine Lindsay of Long Beach.

Jimmy, age 10, is the son of James D. and Patricia C. Baldree of Pearlington.

Handbook reflects changes at Hancock North Central

A new student handbook issued this week to Hancock North Central Junior and Senior High students includes important changes.

No shorts will be allowed. All the rooms at HNC are now air-conditioned, so there is no need for cooler garments. Pants and jeans are allowed, but they must be neat.

No thongs are allowed, only shoes. All clothing must cover the midriff. Students should not wear hair rollers, nor halters, and all clothing must have two-inch shoulder tops.

Hats for gentlemen are never worn inside a building and such has been the rule at Hancock. Neatly groomed mustaches may be worn by the young men, but other parts of the face must be clean shaven.

The new absentee rules repeat the state requirement that all students must be in attendance for 178 days (and/or class), excluding bad weather days approved by the superintendent. Eight days may be excused for sickness, death in the family, or an absence from school.

Rock Tracks

Philip Bailey has graced millions of fans around the world with his unique voice as one of the founding members of Earth, Wind and Fire, and as a successful solo artist in his own right. And, like a true professional, he is not one to rest on his laurels. Having achieved a notable measure of attention for last year's album, "Chinese Wall," he wasted no time getting to work on his current album, "Inside Out."

"Inside Out" has already gone Top Thirty on the R&B charts and has delivered one Top Ten R&B single, "State of the Heart." The album features producer Nile Rodgers behind the board, and a cast of supporting characters which reads like a who's who of modern music: Phil Collins, Jeff Beck, George Duke, Ray Parker, Jr., and Nathan East to name just a few of Philip's friends who contributed to the making of the record. Now, with a second single just released, the upbeat "Echo My Heart," and a tour in the works, Philip is once again hitting his stride.

With the momentum from "Inside Out" behind him, Philip is now in the process of preparing his next album which may come to be called "State of the Soul," which will be more abstract than his current release. "Inside Out" is a more down-to-earth effort which explores the timeless themes of life and love. For Bailey, those themes reflect the many things which make up his love of life, few of which conform to the typical rock star stereotype.

In speaking with Bailey regarding his current perspective on music and his life, he notes, "The quality of a man's life need not consist of what he has, but rather of what quality of man he is." This statement, if expanded to include the whole of the world, would most certainly lead to a world much more full of compassion and human understanding, a dream and belief which he writes about and lives.

Anyone who has ever had the opportunity to enjoy one of Earth, Wind and Fire's shows knows that Bailey's taste for variety goes beyond his eating habits and leisure time sports and hobbies. Anything can happen on stage, and when Earth, Wind and Fire played, it often presented the audience with exploding pyramids and band members whirling around in mid-air. You can bet that solo Philip Bailey, live in concert, will be in top form, inside and out.

Ed Pittman visits HNC

ALAN PARKER

Ed Pittman, Attorney General of the State of Mississippi, spoke to the students of a Pilot State and Local Government class at Hancock North Central.

The class developed and taught by Wilda McNatt, helps students learn local and state laws and acquaints them with state and local officials.

Pittman told the students, and later the entire faculty, that Mississippi is still a vital place to live. "We have an excellent future and we're not going broke," he said. Accompanying Pittman to the school were Frankie White, head of the Public School Division of the Attorney General's office, and Sam Keyes, head of the department that deals with county governments.

Pittman explained his job functions to the students. He told of the State Laws, he helps uphold: narcotics law, trying DUI offenders, helping the Consumer Protection Office, which has a location in Biloxi, the Medicaid Fraud Control; organized crime investigation; and most important, any Mississippi problem that would be presented to the U. S. Supreme Court.

He has 56 attorneys on his staff, and he is the chief legal officer for the State of Mississippi. He can bring or defend any lawsuit on behalf of our state. He has the power to act as counsel to all state agencies - to defend them, or bring suit on their behalf, either in person, or by his assistants.

Pittman was a State Senator in 1964. Then he became our State Treasurer, Secretary of State, and now Mississippi's Attorney General. He is a native of Hattiesburg, who received his B.S. degree in history from the University of Mississippi's Law Center.

His staff since 1984, when he took office as Attorney General, has won 90 percent of the civil lawsuits tried, 87 percent of criminal suits filed with the State Supreme Court, and recovered $829,944.20 for Mississippians who filed complaints as consumers.

To the faculty Mr. Pittman addressed the Education Reform Act funding and feels that the state will continually go forward into education. His optimism of the state's finances was proven by tax receipts being higher this fiscal year than in 1985.

He feels amendments to the Constitution, that will be on the November ballot, will bring the state out from under the 1890 constitution. Yet he does not think there will be a Constitutional Convention to write a new one.

New tests explained to Hancock teachers

The state of Mississippi has given the Stanford Information Services a three-year contract to provide achievement tests for students in grades kindergarten, one, four and six next year.

Alan Parker, a teacher for 27 years, now explains this test to counselors and administrators throughout the state.

Present at Parker's recent presentation in Hancock County were Helen Mestayer, Chapter One coordinator from Hancock County public schools; Nancy Smith, high school counselor, HNC; Jasper Fail, junior high school counselor, HNC; Bonnie Allison, junior high school counselor, Bay St. Louis; Betty Ann Jones, Chapter One coordinator, Bay St. Louis; James Pair, assistant superintendent, Hancock County public schools; and Lois Abrams, teacher, HNC.

Parker explained that on these tests percentiles are not as accurate or important as the Stanine Scores (1-9). These have been validated by testing thousands of students each grade level from K through 12 throughout the U.S.A.

The Stanford Achievement Tests with the Otis-Lennon School Ability Test will tell parents the number of problems tested. It tells the number of correct answers in each section that their child made.

It also gives the results of one class; one grade level in a school system; and the results of that grade in the state on every subject tested. Such information will allow schools to introduce remedial work where needed.

This test is a norm referenced test, comparing a student's ability and achievement to the norm.

The normal curve applies. Twenty-three percent of the students should be below grade level, 54 percent normal, or at grade level, 23 percent above grade level. 1, 2 and 3 Stanine means below grade level; 4, 5 and 6 means at grade level; and 7, 8 or 9 means above grade level, as compared to students throughout the U.S.

It will also help teachers and parents to know the strengths and weaknesses of each child, each class and each school. All this is required by the Educational Reform Act of 1982.

The Aim Program, written by the teachers for each subject at each grade level, can be revised if test scores show weaknesses.

USM honors lists fall lecture schedule

An expert on life in Russia, an opponent of South African apartheid, an outstanding black movie actress and a British Broadcasting Corporation writer/producer will be included in University Forum Lectures this fall at the University of Southern Mississippi.

The forum, sponsored by the USM Honors College, will present six lectures this fall at 7 p.m. on Tuesday evenings in Bennett Auditorium on the USM campus.

BBC writer and producer James Burke will open the USM fall honors lectures on Sept. 23 when he presents "Science, Technology and Change," a program discussing the major cause and effects of major changes in western history.

One week following his USM appearance, Burke will present his new 10-part series on public television, "The Day the Universe Changed." The series has received critical acclaim in its first airing in Great Britain. The programs examine critical periods in history when discoveries transformed western thought.

Black actress Margaret Avery, who was nominated for Best Supporting Actress for her role as "Shug" in "The Color Purple," will be featured at USM Oct. 7. Avery will discuss the filming of the controversial movie and talk about Hollywood from the perspective of a black actress.

On Oct. 21, Helen Suzman will present "Will South Africa Survive?" Suzman's constant opposition to apartheid in South Africa won her election to Parliament as the single member of the Progressive Party in 1961, 1966 and 1970. She was nominated for a Nobel Peace Prize each year from 1981-84.

Former U. S. Marine Corps officer and writer Ray Bonner will lecture at USM Oct. 28. Bonner will present "Response to Revolution: Central America and the Philippines." Bonner has spent the past year in the Philippines working on a book about America's relationship with the island nation. In 1984, he published a book on El Salvador, "Weakness and Deceit," which won critical acclaim.

Writer and film director Susan Sontag will speak on Nov. 11. Academically trained at Berkeley, Chicago and Harvard in Philosophy,

CLEANING UP YOUR POND

Dear MOTHER's Experts:

We've recently put in a pond in a marshy spot on our land in northern Wisconsin. It measures about 60' X 200' and ranges from 2' to 12' in depth. The water is extremely cold and clear. After we dug the pond, the gravel in the bottom was clearly visible, even in the deepest sections. Last year, we stocked the pond with rainbow and brook trout. Numerous springs feed the pond; in fact, when it froze over during the winter, water still moved through the overflow pipe that shunts the excess flow to a nearby river—which kept the pond from freezing completely and killing the fish.

However, a coating of green scum accumulated when the ice melted away this past spring. We skinned the surface of the water with a net to remove the film, but now the entire bottom is covered as well. What's causing the scum to form, and how can we get rid of it? Also, is the water safe for swimming? We'd intended to spend quite a bit of time in the water, but with the way it looks now, no one dares to take a dip!

—High and Dry

Dear H & D:

What you've described is just one form of a very common problem: unwanted algae (or other vegetation) in ponds. Just as on land, an abundance of vegetation in water is a sign of fertility. Whether fertility and plant growth are good or bad depends on the intended use of the pond. In your case, plant growth is not compatible with a recreational facility.

The only way to really solve this kind of problem is to locate and control the source of excess nutrients. (There are ways to control algae and pond weeds mechanically, chemically, or biologically, but they all have drawbacks and almost always require repeated treatment.)

Common sources of excess nutrients in ponds include runoff from fertilized lawns or croplands, malfunctioning septic systems, and livestock manure. I can't pinpoint the source without taking a look, but in your case I'd guess that the fish and their feed are the problem. Are you overfeeding the trout? Don't give them more food than they'll consume in 15 minutes. Or perhaps you just have too many fish; if so, try cutting down the population. It may be advisable to give the pond an annual rest by taking a total or near-total harvest every fall. In the long run, this will also give you better trout production.

A final note: Although the green slime may not be enticing to swimmers, it doesn't represent a health hazard.

Narcotics News

Donald Butler
Director
Bureau of Narcotics

Q. I understand the Bureau of Narcotics can seize vehicles that are in some way connected with drugs. Could you explain? (D.P. Bolton, MS)

A. Vehicles, airplanes, boats, or any type of conveyances which are used or intended for use to transport illegal drugs, or to facilitate the violation of the drug laws, may be seized and forfeited.

There are two purposes for the forfeiture laws. First, they attack the mobility of the drug traffickers and make it more risky and costly for them to move and merchandise their illegal drugs.

Secondly, the forfeited vehicles may be used as undercover cars or may be sold and the proceeds used in drug enforcement.

In these days of governmental budget cuts, the money gotten from the sale of forfeited property helps fund the drug enforcement efforts of our law enforcement agencies.

Q. Does your agency go to schools and search for drugs? (E.L. Florence, MS)

A. Our agency does perform drug searches of lockers at the request of school officials and in conjunction with local law enforcement officials. A dog trained to locate drugs is used in locker searches that we conduct.

The United States Supreme Court has recently ruled in New Jersey versus T.L.O. that school administrators and teachers may themselves conduct warrantless searches of students and student handbags when based on "reasonable grounds for suspecting that the search will turn up evidence that the student has violated or is violating either the law or the rules of the school."

The court stated that the measures adopted must be "reasonably related to the objective of the search and not excessively intrusive in light of the age and sex of the student and the nature of the infraction."

The court noted that the "reasonable grounds" standard applies only to searches by school officials acting alone and on their own authority.

A higher standard, such as "probable cause," may be imposed for searches conducted by school officials in conjunction with or at the behest of law enforcement agencies.

If you would like to ask a question, please address it to: Mississippi Bureau of Narcotics, P.O. Box 6462, Jackson, MS. 39212.

Nutrition can boost child's I.Q.

Parents, do you know what your children are eating at school and between classes? Unfortunately, "too many are attacking vending machines and relying on empty calorie snack products that are loaded with chemical preservatives and additives. What's more, they are getting an unbelievable amount of sugar and salt — ingredients that many health authorities are seriously concerned about.

The National Nutritional Foods Association, the California-based trade association, has a delicious suggestion — let your child take healthy nutritional snacks to school. Nuts, seeds, dried fruit, whole grain bread and cereals, fresh juices are among the fast, fun and good-tasting foods to tempt anyone's palate. Whole wheat pita bread with nut butters, sprouts, organic meats, tofu or tempeh are mouth-watering taste treats that will get the kids asking for more.

Eating patterns form during childhood and influence the course of our personal health and the health of those we raise. Not only physical health, but learning ability and behavior are influenced by what children eat.

Absolutely essential is a wholesome breakfast with wholegrain cereals (oatmeal, millet, wheat, etc.), not those convenient ones loaded with sugar and additives. Don't let the word "fortified" on cereals and bread fool you. When 20 natural nutrients are removed by processing and only 5 to 12 synthetic ones added, along with preservatives, sugar, salt and dyes, can the product be considered "enriched"? Wholegrain cereals and toast give the entire family the essential nutrients needed to manufacture body and brain fuel.

A good way to give your children a head start on learning ability is to give them a multi-vitamin-mineral daily at an early age. In a controlled experiment supervised by Daryl Maseck, multi-vitamin tablets were given to half his students, while the other half got candy pills. Students were divided into matched pairs with approximately the same I.Q. After five months, the results showed the I.Q. of the children in the vitamin group gained an average of 4.82 points, while those in the candy pill group lost an average of 1.88 points. The latter also had four times as many absences from school due to illness.

If your children are hyperactive, experience the joy of seeing their behavior change when you remove sugar contained in candy, pop and pastries, white flour, dyes, additives and preservatives from their diet.

Good nutrition — and good grades — begin at home. Parents can create a nutritional awareness for the entire family and involve every family member in persistent efforts to improve eating habits for personal well-being and success. Does anyone you love experience periods of low energy? Food cravings? Irritability? You might consider what the connection is between how they act and what they eat or don't eat.

We take good care of our automobiles, watching what oil and gas we use, to insure top performance. Should we accept anything less than the best for our children's performance and longevity?

Your local specialty food store has an assortment of naturally delicious, easy-to-prepare foodstuffs, recipes and books to guide in wholesome meal planning for your family. Remember, parents can give their children no greater legacy than a nutritious diet to prepare them for each day. Teach kids to eat what's best for them and they'll grow and develop into the best they can be.

Presented as a public service by the National Nutritional Foods Association, a trade association of health food stores, manufacturers and distributors throughout the United States.

School b new teach

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Board has decided not to pay 15 new teachers at the end of August in order to avoid violating a section of a new Mississippi school law.

The board made the decision on a four-to-one vote in a special meeting Friday afternoon after Board Attorney Lucien Gex explained that members could be prosecuted for breaking the law in question.

Superintendent of Education Roger D. Oge' contended that the board could also be sued by a teacher or teachers for breach of contract.

Gex agreed that prosecution on

Port commi settles lawsuit

The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission voted Monday to settle a lawsuit with Bond Paving Company of Gulfport.

In the settlement, the county will pay Bond $221,712 for resurfacing work on Taxiway E and construction of a parking apron at Stennis International Airport.

The county had refused to pay Bond final payments on the projects due to problems with the asphalt and an extensive overrun of contract time.

Waveland sets on 1986-87 bu

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Waveland Board of Aldermen will hold its annual public hearing on the city's 1986-87 budget Tuesday.

The budget is scheduled to be considered for adoption at a special meeting Sept. 9.

The budget includes a total of $1,662,310 in both revenues and expenditures in its general fund. The general fund for the current fiscal year originally totalled $1,630,039 but is proposed for amendment to $1,585,843.

Much of the proposed increase, according to Mayor John Longo Jr., consists of raises for city personnel and addition of personnel to the fire and police departments.

Longo said he and the board anticipate no tax increase and no utility rate increases.

Proposed budget expenditure and revenue totals for special funds include $24,440 for the city library; $451,702 for sewerage; $32,000 for recreation; $49,647 for state loan retirements; $23,310 for bonds and interest; and $1,162,890 for water and gas.
